

Colon Cancer Online Audit

Measuring conversation about CRC in the online space

Overview

- Top-line summary of historic and current online conversation about colon cancer to inform our strategies
- Filtered search of thousands of related Web sites, blogs and social networking posts
- Details related to the Blue Star's presence in the online space
 - Colon cancer occupies smaller portion of overall cancer-related conversation online
 - Very little presence of the Blue Star in the online space

Colon Cancer Conversation Trends

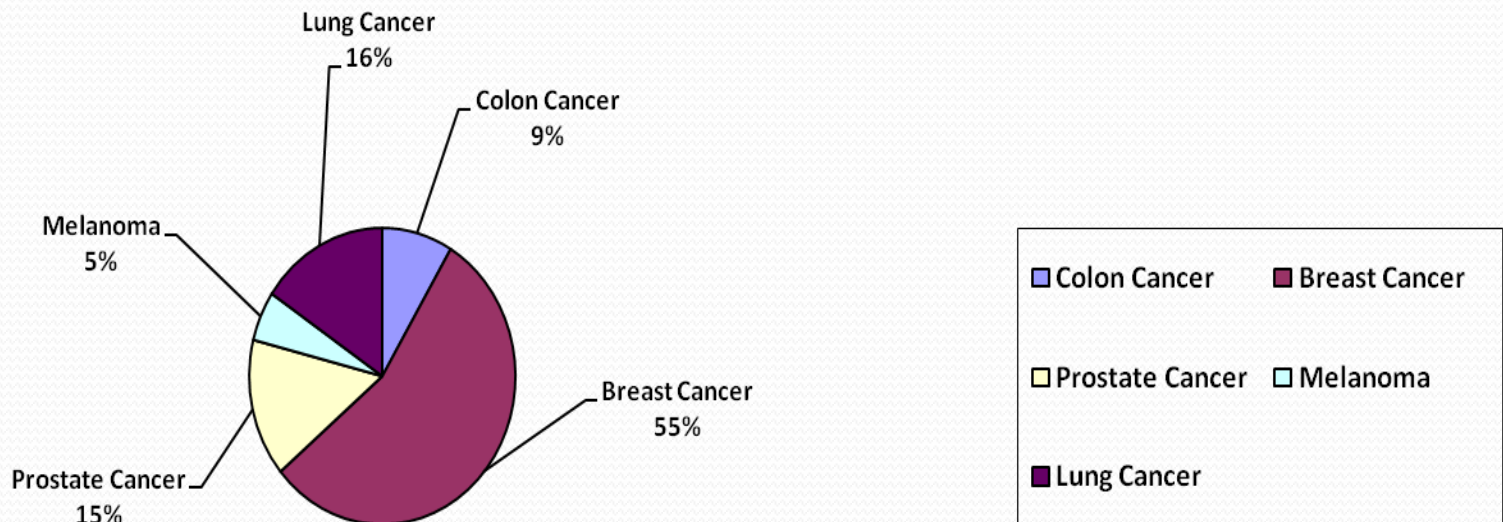

- The graph below charts the flow of online conversation about colon cancer from 2004-2009. The letters within the chart denote spikes within the overall conversation.

- A) White House Spokesman Tony Snow's cancer has spread
- B) Bush Undergoes Colon Cancer Screening
- C) Tony Snow dies of Colon Cancer
- D) Vitamin D reduces risk of breast and colon cancer
- E) Researchers: Aspirin cuts colon cancer risk
- F) Teddy Pendergrass dies of colon cancer

Blog Share of Voice

- Graph showcases the types of cancer that generate the largest amount of related conversation online, as well as each type of cancer's share in the overall conversation

Blog Conversation

- From the launch of the Blue Star campaign on March 1, 2004, through February 26, 2010:
 - Approximately 128,446 blogs have discussed colon cancer
 - Approximately 53 blogs have mentioned the Blue Star
 - The following sites included the image of the Blue Star
 - Stolen Colon
 - Living Beyond Colon Cancer
 - Patti's Place
 - Voices of NH
 - Gather
 - Shamrock Knits
 - Getting Your Rear In Gear

Twitter Conversation

- In an eight day period in late February, (the length of time available to search conversations on Twitter) 911 people have tweeted about colon cancer. Examples included:
 - MiSs_BiCa: @abolishcancer Lost my Mom 1/05 to colon cancer. Didn't know much of it. I was 16. Miss her. And it would be nice 2 B able 2 abolish it
 - cambridgechron: BLOG: City recognizes Colon Cancer Awareness Month: March is Colon Cancer Awareness Month. Cambridge residents are... <http://bit.ly/bWOZuF> (expand)
 - KarinaTyne: Gene signature may improve colon cancer treatment <http://bit.ly/bzoDXv>
 - Authathurts: @abolishcancer lost my dad to colon cancer 4/09. Want to help abolish cancer so no1 has to suffer like he & my fam have...
 - Gia_Antolini: #FF RT @blueyesbrunet Early detection of colon cancer is important. You should be anal about it.

Colon Cancer on Facebook

- Blue Star for Colon Cancer \(NCCRT\) – 519 fans
- Colon Cancer – 117 members
- Abolish Colon Cancer – 6,532 members
- Colon Cancer Alliance – 805 fans
- Colon Cancer Awareness - 7,974 fans

Conclusions

- Ample opportunity to increase conversation about both colon cancer and the Blue Star in the online space
- Facebook indicates that the community is present, active
- Every members' online efforts count, no matter how small

Next Steps

- Encourage more online conversations about colon cancer; continue to work to include Blue Star in existing conversation
- Continued reporting
- Continued Facebook outreach
- Ongoing monitoring for emerging opportunities